Red Cross Aids Flood Victims Of Rio Grande

One-half million dollars is the estimate now set for the total cost of Red Cross assistance to victims of the Southwest Texas floods. An initial allocation of $250,000 for the Rio Grande Valley flood victims has been made by the Red Cross for emergency and rehabilitation assistance in the Rio Grande Valley.

Additional funds from the national Red Cross organization will be made available as needed. Red Cross chapters throughout Texas are accepting contributions for disaster relief in the Texas cities and are collecting clothing for Mexican flood refugees.

Red Cross shelters on the U. S. side of the flooded area are being closed while workers swing into the long-term rehabilitation program. At Ozona 107 families have applied for Red Cross relief, 230 families at Eagle Pass and 59 families at Del Rio. Laredo was the worst hit and 1,000 families have applied for Red Cross aid and the number is expected to rise to 1,500. Governor Shivers has expressed his appreciation for Red Cross aid to Red Cross Chairman E. Roland Harriman.

After a meeting of Red Cross and Mexican government officials a survey of needs were made in that country. Relief supplies, food, medicine and clothing are being sent in to aid flood victims in Mexico. The U. S. is providing planes, personnel and field kitchens for relief operations in the Mexican cities.

In the entire disaster operation the Red Cross has had the fullest cooperation of the state division of defense and disaster relief, headed by William L. McGill, state coordinator, the state Department of Public Welfare, and other state and local officials and agencies.

Joe Bailey on Visit to Boys At Fort Benning

Joseph A. Bailey, assistant director of Public Service, West Texas State, was among the college executives who will pay an official visit to the men attending summer camp at Camp Benning, Ga. The enrollment of the camp totals 1,299 cadets.

During the visit on July 14-15 the officials will observe the methods of training, and the drills which are given by the men.

Among officials attending from Texas will be faculty representatives from Hardin-Simmons University; Prairie View College; Trinity University; Sam Houston State of Huntsville; and Texas Technological College; West Texas State.

Bryce Slack in Special Course

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Goodman returned Friday from visiting their daughter, Shirley, and her husband, Bryce Slack. Bryce is attending the University of Texas at Austin where he is a member of a fellowship group. The group is sponsored by the Kellog Foundation and the University of Texas. The course of study is in foundations of Educational Administration.

Members of the group were chosen as being prospective school administrators. There are 19 in this group of which Bryce is the youngest. He also represents the Panhandle area by being the only member from north of Abilene.

The course has the distinction as being the only one of its kind in operation in the United States at present. It is designed primarily to give the men an overall look at educational administration.

The group will be taken to Bryan next week to conduct an educational survey of the city. This will be done to give them the experience of conducting a survey and then of tabulating and filing results.

Bryce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burney Slack of this city.

Highway Wreck Wednesday Nite

W. T. Prather and Charles Bart of Tulia were injured on highway 87 between Happy and Canyon Wednesday night.

They were headed north when their car hit a hole in the pavement and went into a light pole. They were brought to the Neblett Hospital in Canyon for treatment.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert P. Jarrett spent the week-end in Dallas, returning home Tuesday morning.

Only One More Issue of The News Before Vote

There will be just one more issue of The Canyon News published before the first primary election on July 24. Under ordinary conditions this issue would be filled with election advertisements, urging the people to support various candidates.

The News force urges that those candidates who wish to have a political advertisement in the last issue of the paper before the vote should turn in their copy not later than Friday of this week.

The time for the election is short. Candidates are urged to do all of their campaigning before the final primary election date of July 24.

Wheat Farmers To Vote on July 23rd, '54

On July 23 wheat growers will vote on whether marketing quota penalties will be used in connection with the acreage control on wheat for the 1955 crop.

The referendum vote will not change the acreage allotments.

The vote will be on the question of whether to use marketing penalties to enforce compliance with acreage allotments.

Voting places for Randall county will be announced next week.

Any wheat grower who plans more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain will be eligible to vote.

Marketing quotas must be approved by a two-thirds majority, of wheat growers, in the referendum July 23 if they are to be applied to the 1955 crop.

Randall Herds Made High Records With Milk Production

According to the monthly report on milk production, Louis Hinders and Neil Downing stood second and third in the tri-county herd average with their Holstein herds.

Hinders and Downing stood first and second with their cows in highest amount of butter fats.

Hinders and Downing were first and second with the high ten cows producing milk; with Richmond Hales standing sixth.

These three herds took highest honors in the various class ratings given in the contest.

Lewis Stoelzing To Teach in Wichita

Lewis Stoelzing will teach music in the Wichita, Kansas, public schools starting in September. He has taught violin and directed the orchestra in W. T. for several years.

Mr. Stoelzing has recently returned from the Veterans Hospital at McKinney where he underwent an operation for a back injury received while he was a member of the Navy during World War II. He and his family were in Wichita over the week-end to look for a home in which they will live the coming year.

McCullough, nationally known authority in the field of reading improvement, will be one of the consultants for the Second Annual Reading Conference at West Texas State College July 26-29. A professor at San Francisco State College, Dr. McCullough will be attending her fourth reading conference in the state, sponsored by the Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading.

No Public Talks By Candidates Scheduled 1954

There will be no candidate rally in Canyon during the campaign of 1954!

The Canyon News has sponsored such a rally in years past, and during the past week has quizzed candidates as to their desire for such a public rally. As a result of this canvass, it was found that only one candidate for district office and one for county office felt that the tradition should be carried on.

The balance of the candidates were free to admit that they had no preference, but that the attitude of the voters was to stay away from such rallies.

With all farmers as busy as they can be in harvesting grain, planting and cultivating row crops, and looking after farm work, the attitude was that the candidates could see more voters in their homes during the time that they were attending a political rally than they would attract to the court house during such a period.

As a result, the idea of a political rally at the band stand is definitely and firmly rejected as being impracticable this year.

Farmers who have lost so many crops due to the continued drouth feel that it would be an imposition upon them to ask them to attend such a rally.

Local candidates were invited to a so-called monster rally on the court house lawn of Amarillo last week and the newspapers reported that only 300 persons showed up to hear one of the two leading candidates for Governor. An Amarillo man who said that he sat on the front row where he could see all of the assembled persons said that not more than 125 persons were present. Local candidates were invited but did not have a chance to speak.

The Canyon News will have a bulletin board in its east window election night, July 24th. Citizens are invited to come and see the results of the contested races as they are received. Election judges are urged to get their returns into The Canyon News office as soon as the polls are closed at 7 o'clock.

The main thing is for each and every citizen to make up his mind right now to be sure and vote on July 24th.

Don Cloward Sells Cowboy Cafe to Ted Stanley

The Cowboy Cafe changed hands again this week when Don Cloward sold the business to Ted Stanley, who has operated cafes in Amarillo and several surrounding towns.

Mr. Cloward recently sold the corner at Highway 87 and Fourth Avenue to Amarillo men and the Humble Oil Company is building a station at this place. He leased the north part of the Gulf Oil Co. for a new location, but fire ruined most of his fixtures before they could be moved to the new location. He states that he and his family will soon leave for a vacation trip to California before returning to open the cafe on the highway.

Mr. Stanley is well known in Canyon, having many relatives here. His aim is to continue operating a first class cafe.

DWI Charges Hiway Mishap

A car driven by two Kress men ran into the rear of a truck loaded with hay at 10 o'clock Saturday night on the hill north of Canyon.

Russell Simms was tried in county court Monday on the charge of Driving While Intoxicated. His punishment was assessed at $100 and costs, and six months in jail. The latter was suspended during good behavior.

Leon Martin, also of Kress, was treated at the Neblett Hospital for injuries. George Bradford, driver of the truck, was not injured.

J. V. Williams Died Heart Attack

J. V. Williams, farmer living in the north part of Randall county, died Friday morning of a heart attack. He had been in Canyon Thursday and made no complaint of feeling badly.

The family lived southeast of Canyon for several years before moving to the Park community in the north part of the county.

At the time of his death, the Williams family was living east of the Weininger place, south of Amarillo.

Mrs. Bob Bellah went to Dallas Sunday night on business.

Frenchman Will Soon Arrive in Canyon for an 8-Weeks Visit

For eight weeks a 21-year-old Frenchman, Pierre Jacquet, will be a citizen of Canyon, living in the homes of eight families, doing the things they do, and learning at first hand how Americans of this area live, work and play. He will be the guest of the Canyon Rotary Club.

A student at the National Institute of Agronomy in Paris, young Jacquet is being brought to Canyon as a project by the International Services Committee of the Rotary Club. The committee worked through the International Research Fund, Inc., an organization incorporated in Minnesota, with headquarters in New York City.

The International Research Fund conducts a summer visitation program for students abroad, making arrangements for contacting persons overseas. Different organizations within the various countries "screen" students and receive applications for the International Research Fund group. In the case of Pierre, the Paris Chamber of Commerce cooperated with the American group.

Rotarians will sponsor Jacquet, paying his transportation to and from New York City, and will care for him as long as he is in the United States. The International Research Fund organization brings the students from overseas. The sponsoring organization lists its preferences for male or female and lists its choices from three countries. Student selected is usually sent to an area best fitted for his particular interests.

Pierre is especially fitted to visit Canyon and the Panhandle area, for his field of study at the Paris institute is agronomy and general agriculture.

Jacquet will leave London, with a group of some 40 or 50 other visitors to America, in a specially chartered airliner on Wednesday. The students will arrive in New York sometime on Thursday. Canyon's visitor is expected to arrive from New York by bus on Sunday or Monday.

Highly recommended by the National Institute of Agronomy, where he holds a scholarship, and by the Paris Chamber of Commerce, young Jacquet wants to "devote myself to technical research, especially in agronomy, either as a civil servant or in private industry," when he completes his education.

The visitor, who will observe his 22nd birthday in Canyon, on Aug. 2, spent his youth in the country, west of Limoges, where, before the war, his father was a director of a local newspaper. He attended the "Lycee," or public school in Limoges, and then went to Bordeux to prepare for his entrance examinations for the National Institute of Agronomy.

In Paris, he has lived in the "Cite Universitaire," hostels, or dormitories for university and college students. His hobbies are photography and sports, and he is a member of a "photo-club" in Paris. He wrote that he hopes to take a large number of pictures in America."

"So the object of my traveling across will be to (have) contact with American life, not only to compare it with the French, but much more to try and understand the American genius, for I think that if people want to live friendly, they must break barriers of prejudices and meet in order to discuss world problems in which they are all deeply concerned," Pierre wrote.

Dr. Ples Harper and Dr. Lowell Harrison have made arrangements for Pierre's visit. He will stay a week in the homes of Dr. Harper, Dr. Robert Jarrett, Dr. Dudley Moore, O. W. Parker, Frank Morgan, T. S. Stevenson, and Clyde Warwick.

Million Bushels Wheat Is Claim

W. H. Upchurch stated Tuesday that his early estimate of a million bushel wheat crop for Randall county still stands.

His office is running about two or three days behind the demand for applications for loans as the wheat crop is being harvested. On Monday his force completed loans on 40 farms, but took in applications from 100 farmers.

As the wheat harvest is being ended throughout the country, it is believed that the peak is about passed for applications.

So far the First National Bank has been able to keep up with loan applications as soon as the warehouse receipts have been figured by Mr. Upchurch's office.

Governor Shivers Speaks in Amarillo Saturday Night

Invitations have been received in Canyon this week from Lawrence Hagy for all citizens to attend the political rally to be held in Amarillo Saturday night.

Governor Shivers will bring his campaign for a third term to the Panhandle at that time.

It is expected that a large number of Canyon people will accept the invitation to hear the Governor.

Peeping Tom May Get Load of Shot

A peeping tom has been reported operating in the east part of Canyon.

Canyon citizens are incensed over the situation.

It is reported that every home in the east section of town has a gun loaded for action.

Peace officers have little chance to catch such fellows as there is too much time between the time such a person is seen and officers can arrive at the scene.

Citizens are warned not to shoot unless they are sure that their homes are being molested.

Peeping toms had better give up this questionable practice.

HIGH PRAISE

Fire Boys Are Given Boost

The fire alarm sounded Monday night, at 3 a. m.

It was only a matter of minutes until all of the fire fighting equipment was rolling, and arrived at a home in the east part of town where an air conditioner was causing trouble. There was no fire.

A citizen of Canyon observed that within minutes fully 50 men were swarming over the house from which the alarm originated.

"I could not possibly see how any paid fire department could beat the fine record set by the boys of the volunteer fire department," stated this interested citizen.

Farm-to-Market Road Is Approved

Another farm-to-market road in Randall county was approved Monday at a meeting of the Commissioners Court.

We Are Just Wondering About The Yarborough-Shivers Race

We are just wondering.

We have been lambasted for saying that Governor Shivers should be re-elected Governor of Texas on the theory that no person has been elected to the job for three terms.

Yarborough is making a lot of the situation. He argues that he should be elected Governor of Texas simply because Governor Shivers should not have the gall to ask for the third term.

We are still wondering.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt asked for a third term, Yarborough was shouting his head off for his election for another four year term.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected for a fourth term, Yarborough was one of his staunch supporters.

Roosevelt sought to be President of the United States for 16 years; and Yarborough approved his action.

Shivers is running for his third term, which amounts to only six years, if he is elected, and according to Yarborough this is all wrong. Shivers should step aside and allow Yarborough a free race for Governor of Texas.

There has been a lot of needless sidelight and unnecessary arguments injected into this campaign.

Yarborough is fighting for his political life, and he is grasping at all of the political straws which may be adrift on the political seas of Texas. His charge that Shivers made a profit on land amounts to nothing; the income tax returns of Shivers and Yarborough amount to nothing; the Yarborough charge that Shivers is a do-nothing Governor is not borne out by the records. The charge of Yarborough that Shivers is a Republican simply because he chose to defend the school children of Texas against Stevenson is all poppy cot. Shivers is no more Republican than any other clear thinking man in the State who supported President Eisenhower.

Yarborough should live in a state which has a close balance of political power between the Republicans and the Democrats and he would be cured of his narrow notions. He should have lived in a state, like the writer did before coming to Texas, and witnessed our father, as a Democrat, being elected just one time in a predominantly powerful Republican county. He should have witnessed that one state hop from party to another party during the long period of the depression when the people voted for the man rather than for the party.

Well, Yarborough is making much of the idea that the Democratic party is over and above all parties in Texas, and that he as the Democratic leader should be elected Governor simply because he is the one and only spokesman of the party.

We are convinced that Governor Shivers will be re-elected by a safe majority in the first primary on July 24.

Where Does the Money Go in This Campaign for Governor?

An ardent campaigner for Ralph Yarborough was in Canyon the other day. This was an Amarillo woman, who expressed disgust at the manner in which Yarborough's campaign was being conducted and the way that thousands of dollars were being wasted. She bought and paid for an ad in last week's issue of The Canyon News. The money which she spent came from the people of the Panhandle.

The objection she raised is State headquarters of the Yarborough party was the fact that the candidate was trying to appeal alone to the big shots of the state, and ignoring the little every day persons.

As an example she cited the manner in which the candidate was being shifted from one spot to another; no advertising in the country press; and the general method of shifting away from the rank and file of the Democratic party. She was convinced that Yarborough could win by stressing the fact that Governor Shivers had deserted the Democratic party in time of need.

She overlooked one important fact: That Shivers did not desert the party until the Democratic party deserted the school children of Texas, and that the candidate for President on the Democratic party admitted that he would slap the people of Texas in the face when a bill was passed giving the tidelands to Texas. Yet he was Yarborough's man!

We see that Yarborough has spent more money than Governor Shivers. One difference: The Governor has bought and paid for an advertisement in every country weeklies in Texas, while Yarborough is spending his money on plane trips and big station radios. We are not fighting the radio stations, as their salesmen are doing a good job of selling, but we wonder just what part of the people of Texas are listening to their stations while the candidate speaks!!

Wonders of Wonders: Take Your Choice of Counter Claims

We hear two very conflicting stories:

1. That cigarette smoking has declined since it was revealed that cancers and cigarettes go hand in hand;

2. That cigarette manufacturers have reported an increase in the sale of weed since scientists have attempted to sell the people on the idea that cancer is caused by cigarettes.

So far as non-smokers are concerned, it seems that there are about as many cases of cancers among this class of people as there are among those who puff the weed.

Take your pick. At least, the income from cigarette stamps in Texas went down materially after the disclosure.

The popular idea of a tax reduction bill is one that reduces taxes in our income-bracket and increases them if necessary, in other brackets.

Everybody depends upon the farmer for food but not many seek to ascertain what the farmer can depend upon.

More and Better Salesmen Are Needed to Sell Market's Goods

At intervals leaders in the field of retail trade hold conventions and meetings, in which they discuss matters of common interest and exchange ideas.

It's highly significant that at recent gatherings of this nature, the strongest kind of emphasis has been placed on the need for better salesmanship. This includes advertising, displays, and other promotion. It further includes improvement in the general caliber of salespeople—the men and women who represent the store to the prospective consumer, and whose abilities and attitudes and knowledge may mean the difference between a good record and a bad one in any retail enterprise.

What we have here is more proof of how intensely competitive all retail business has become—and how the consumer and his desires dominates present-day thinking in retail circles. There was a period, during and after the war, when it was possible to sell practically anything, even if shoddy and over-priced, and when real salesmanship wasn't needed. That era has gone with the wind—and the successful retailers of the present are those who offer their wares most attractively, and who give the best value and service for the money.

Wise retailers know that this is good for the long-run welfare of their industry. And its benefits to the consumer are too obvious to need describing.

Folks Are Getting Better in The World in Spite of Turmoil

There are some people in Randall County who wonder whether the world is getting better and whether human beings are making progress, despite the many improvements of the modern age.

It is not possible to secure statistics to measure the progress of mankind in some lines but medical men assert that 2,000 years ago, the average length of life was 25 years. Today, they say it is 66 years. This looks as if progress has been made along medical lines.

We believe that it can be established beyond doubt, that the average standard of living has also moved upward throughout the world. Nor have we much doubt but that the same can be said for education,, economic activities and the social relationships that exist between human beings.

Comic Books Filling a Needed Place in Kids' Education

Every once in a while we run across the fact that parent-teacher groups and others interested in the welfare of children, express the belief that fewer "blood and thunder" comic books would aid in combatting juvenile delinquency.

The possibility exists that these individuals are correct but, in their criticism of the literature of youth, they are following the example of earlier generations. There has hardly been a time, in the history of the country, when the adults of the nation did not criticize and condemn the literature of the young people of their day.

The modern comic book, and its counterpart, the radio serial, probably provide modern youth with the same thrill that their elders got out of the "dime novel." It might be better, of course, if youth would take to the reading of the classics, or some useful and informative tomes on practical subjects, but the way to persuade them to make the change is not apparent. With many of them, it is a case of reading the "comic books" or reading nothing.

Shipment by Water Affects Each Person in This Nation of Ours

We were amazed the other day to read a statement from authorities on the shipment by water from the United States and what the merchant marine means to the farmers and producers of America.

39% of our wheat is shipped to foreign markets; 33% of our cotton goes abroad; 26% of our tobacco finds its way to other lands; 24% of our lard is shipped in our merchant marine. A large percent of our manufactured goods find their way abroad.

In the national demand for wrecking this, that and the other, perhaps we forget that we need the merchant marine the same as we need other facilities of this nation.

What the nation needs is more statesmen who want to know what is right before trying to ascertain the number of voters involved.

Nothing is to be gained by denouncing the Russians for taking care of their interests; let our statesmen take care of our interests.

Every 15 minutes an American dies on the highways of the nation, which means that somebody continues to drive carelessly.

One of the surest methods of making yourself disliked is to get the idea that you have to speak the truth all the time.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who believed that great wisdom was to be found in the nation's capital?

TRAIN FIREMAN RESCUES CHILD

Omaha, Neb. — Seeing a 2-year-old child standing by the railroad, Fireman Otto Gibson, of Fall City, Neb., dropped from the cab of his locomotive and scrambled ahead to the footboard as the train slowed down. Leaping to the right of the rail, Gibson tucked the child under his arm and the two rolled to safety. The child's father, who saw the rescue, profusely thanked Gibson, but left without telling the child's name.

WAS SHE SURPRISED?

Omaha, Neb. — Mrs. Joseph O. Hebenstreit opened what she thought was a package of sliced boiled ham which she had bought from her grocery store. Instead of sliced ham, however, she found the store's bank deposit. Instead of enjoying a boiled ham sandwich, though, Mrs. Hebenstreit ate steak—her reward for returning the deposit to the store.

ONE WAY TO DO IT

Grand Rapids, Mich. — Determined not to lose any of her small charges in a crowd of 2,000 at a civic affair, kindergarten teacher Katherine Van Houtum tied them together with twine in sets of five and gave one end of the string to each of five adults in her group.

He has not learned the lesson of life who does not every day surmount a fear. —R. W. Emerson

Canyon Boys State Delegates Report

Ken Kuykendall and Jack McCormick, Canyon's delegates to this year's Lone Star Boy's State in Austin, presented their report to members of the Lions Club Wednesday. The boys were sponsored jointly by the American Legion, Rotary Club and Lions Club.

This year 503 boys attended Boy's State. Each year two parties are organized, the Longhorns and Pioneers. The Longhorn party, of which Ken and Jack were members, succeeded in winning 17 of 20 offices. Ken was elected a county judge and Jack was elected Commissioner of Agriculture.

A boy from Waco was elected governor and a boy from Houston was named lieutenant governor. As Commissioner of Agriculture Jack made a tour of the Department of Agriculture building and met Commissioner John White. Mr. White explained various phases of the department to Jack.

Principal address at Boy's State was given by Attorney General John Ben Shepperd. Other speakers included Bascom Giles and Ben Ramsey.

In telling of the huge quantity of food required by the 500 boys, Jack said 720 dozen eggs, 300 gallons of tea, and 1500 pounds of potatoes were consumed in the one week.

Both boys expressed appreciation to the sponsoring organizations for the trip.

Wednesday marked the first meeting with new officers in charge.

Guest of the Lions Club was Lion Herelyn Laycock of White Deer.

A NEAT BURGLAR

Waterbury, Conn. — It was a meat burglar who recently entered the Jesse Blanchard home and robbed it of five bedsheets, two pillows, 24 pounds of flour, and two 1-pound boxes of baking powder. The thief removed a pane of glass from a door, and, just as carefully, replaced the glass after hauling out his loot.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Operation Ivy

The first full-scale thermo-nuclear explosion in history took place at the Pacific Proving Ground of the Atomic Energy Commission in November, 1952, and was designated as "Operation Ivy."

During this operation a series of colored motion pictures were taken, both for the historical record and for information and educational purposes. This film was highly restricted until April 1, 1954, at which time it was released, in black and white copies only, to television, radio and press.

Further restrictions on the colored version of the film have been released in part, and I have been able to purchase one of the colored versions. This will be made available to any of the groups that desire to view the film. It is 16-millimeter size and requires approximately 28 minutes to screen.

It occurred to me that many of the people in the 18th Congressional District would want to have a first-hand view of this explosion. I will be happy to loan the film which has a sound track to any groups desiring it if you will write me. Just address your communication to Walter Rogers, Member of Congress, 1712 House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Foreign Aid and the Farmers

The House of Representatives considered two bills during the week of June 28. The first was the Foreign Aid bill, which involved an expenditure of approximately three and a half billion dollars. The second was the Agriculture bill, having to do with the continuance of the agricultural program in this country.

I was somewhat amazed at the ease with which the Foreign Aid bill sailed through the House. A bill providing three and a half billion dollars, in addition to the nine billion plus already appropriated but unexpended, to be spent overseas.

I voted against this bill, as I have similar bills in the past, for the reason that I do not believe that this country is getting value received or near it for the dollars being spent under this program.

I have long contended that this money could and would produce ten times the results if it were operated on the basis of exchanging the products of this country in which we are in over-supply for the use of the manpower in many of these countries in which they are in over-supply. Such procedure would, in my opinion, furnish the most effective weapon in the battle against Communism.

It would enable many an American boy to remain on his home shores to help produce the goods, wares and merchandise needed in this fight, and it would also enable the manpower of these recipient countries to stand up and be counted against Communism and do something about it.

In addition, it would furnish the economic aid more effectively, because the funds for the services rendered would reach the individual citizens. In many instances in the past it has been definitely shown that tremendous amounts of these foreign aid funds paid over to the governments of these countries suffered a terrific evaporation loss before they reached the people in the every-day walks of life. Such a process would also remove from any of the funds, goods, wares or merchandise, any taint of charity.

Just after the House had increased the funds available for foreigners to some 12 billion plus dollars, the agriculture bill was brought before the House. Immediately the tune changed. The picture became one of tragedy, wherein the American farmer had grown foodstuffs in excess of our demand to the extent of about six and a half billion dollars.

That is, six and a half billion dollars worth of foodstuffs are in the pantry, ready to be used and consumed by the American people, or our allies, as the need may be. Why this is a tragedy, I have never been able to understand, but there seems to be a great propaganda campaign to convince the American people that it is a sin and a crime to have a backlog of food and fiber, both of which are indispensable in the life of man.

When the smoke had all cleared away at the end of the week, the result was that the foreigners got three and a half billion more, the farmer got his price supports cut. I voted against the foreigners and for the farmers. Sorry my side didn't win.

AIN'T IT SO?

Only 470 Hiway Patrol in State

Austin: The Highway Safety Council said that "understaffing of the Texas Highway Patrol is the most serious handicap facing enforcement of safety measures on the highways of the state."

In a report to members, executive director G. C. Morris said that by all established standards "Texas is one-half to two-thirds deficient in providing adequate patrolmen to protect the public safety on the highways beyond city limits."

"Texas has made remarkable progress in reducing the highway death toll," the Council's director noted. "In 1953, our death rate was 6.4 for each 100 million vehicle miles traveled, and this was the lowest in our history."

"The disturbing aspect of this otherwise fine achievement is the fact that we do not have sufficient patrolmen to assure a continued decline in the accident and death rate," Morris said. "Unless we do what needs to be done, the continued increase in travel over Texas highways will result in an upward trend in the death rate. Our highways will become more dangerous, instead of more safe."

Morris said the minimum standards set by national groups such as the White House Safety Conference, National Safety Council, and International Association of Chiefs of Police show that Texas should have between 1,173 and 1,603 highway patrolmen. Texas actually has only 470.

Morris noted that "virtually every state with a safety record better than Texas has far more highway patrolmen, although no state has a greater area to be patroled."

California has 1,474 highway patrolmen, Pennsylvania has 1,785, and Michigan has 677, the Council report pointed out. Texas, sixth ranking in population, is fourth-ranking in automobile registrations.

"In Texas," Morris added, "we have only one patrol unit to cover more than 200 miles of highway, while in the State of New Jersey the standard is one unit for each 10 miles."

"No state," Morris continued, "has ever made a sustained deduction in tragic deaths without good traffic enforcement."

Morris told members of the Highway Safety Council that "the solution to this problem is legislative — the Texas Legislature must provide the funds with which to expand our highway patrol."

"At a minimum," he added, "we should add 100 to 200 new highway patrolmen next year, and continue to increase the force annually. Each year traffic accidents cost nearly $150,000,000 in economic loss which is more than 20 times what we spend annually on the entire operation of the Department of Public Safety."

10 Local Persons To Make Trip to Eastern Part USA

Ten persons from Canyon will be among the 70 who will go on a 25-day field geography tour of the eastern portion of the United States and Canada, starting Friday and continuing until Aug. 10, conducted by the West Texas State College geography department.

They are Miss Addie Allred, Dr. Hattie Anderson, Mrs. Miriam Capterton, Mrs. T. W. Collins, Miss Elizabeth Cox, Joe Frank, Miss Wilma Hixson, Mrs. Pearl LeGendre, Mrs. Laura C. SoRelle, and Miss Sarah Thompson.

The extended tour, by air-conditioned buses, is the second to be directed at WT by Dr. Murry B. Measamer, professor and head of the geography department. Last summer a single bus toured the western states and Canada, and demands from students brought a second bus for the eastern tour. Mrs. Collins, Miss Cox, and Miss Thompson were members of the western tour party last year.

Emphasizing study at first hand of geologic formations, soils, climate, water and natural resources, and their influence on man's industrial, urbanization, transportation and population growth, the tour also brings directly to the student the daily laboratory of actual experience.

First bus, or class section, will leave the campus Friday morning at 6 o'clock, with the second section, directed by Prof. T. V. Crounse, leaving Saturday morning. The two sections will join in major cities and points of interest. Miss Katie McCluney, associate professor of home economics, will be chaperone for the first group, and Mrs. Bill R. Lee is chaperone for the second bus.

Tour route will take students through Corinth, Miss., Chattanooga, Morgantown, N. C., Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Portland, Me., Quebec, Montreal, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Peoria, Ill., and Lincoln, Neb.

During the first few days, the groups will visit the gigantic T.V.A. projects in Alabama and Tennessee, Wilson Dam, Lookout Mountain, the Great Smoky Mountain National Park, and will visit textile factories and the tobacco industry from farm to factory. In and around Richmond and northern Virginia, the groups will see Mt. Vernon, Yorktown, St. John's Church, where Patrick Henry made his famous address, and other places of historic and geographic note.

A guided tour of Washington, where the students will spend over two days, will be made; and a full day will be spent in Philadelphia. Three days are scheduled in New York City, where tourists will see everything from the United Nations to a ballgame between the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs. Historic Boston, colorful Quebec and Montreal, famed Niagara Falls, and the industrial Midwest complete the "chock-full" days of the tour.

Classwork will be conducted each day, and students will make observations and take notes as though they were sitting in a classroom at WT. When the groups return to the campus, they will take final examinations, being tested on "unwritten but vivid textbooks."

Boys League Tied For Second Week

Cooper's and Foster's Insurance teams continue to share the league lead with an identical score for the second week in a row. Their records are 5 and 1.

Last week's games resulted in the following scores: Sternenberg 16, Taylor-Evans 10; Foster Insurance 9, Bellah's 3; Cooper's 24, Taylor & Sons 10; Foster Insurance 18, Taylor-Evans 6.

Friday Cooper's will play Sternenberg's and Taylor & Sons will play Bellah's. On Monday Cooper's will meet Taylor-Evans and Taylor & Sons will meet Foster Insurance.

Postmasters To Study New Plan On July 20th

Postmasters and key post office personnel in 26 counties in the Panhandle will meet Tuesday, July 20, in Amarillo to discuss operations under the Post Office Department's new decentralization program.

W. B. Weatherred, Amarillo District operations manager, has called the meeting for 2 p. m. at the Federal Building.

This is the fourth of a series of meetings with postmasters and supervisors in the Amarillo District. Previous sessions were held at Childress, Wichita Falls, and Midland.

Under the new set-up, the Amarillo District is one of six districts in the Texas-Louisiana region, headed by Earle C. Wilkes with regional offices in Dallas. Other district offices are located in Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston, and New Orleans.

"Decentralization," explained Weatherred, "was recommended in the Hoover Commission report adopted in 1948, as a means of creating greater efficiency and economy in postal operations. Before decentralization every one of the nation's 40,000 postmasters reported directly to Washington. Now postmasters will take up their problems with nearby district managers."

The Texas-Louisiana region is the third to be activated. In all there will be 15 regions, and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said each regional manager, in effect, would be a "little postmaster general."

GIRL SOUTS AT CAMP

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Parker, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Taylor, Jr., took five members of Girl Scout Troop 2 to Buffalo Springs, Sunday, where they will attend camp. Those going were Karen Sue Parker, Judy Taylor, Marcia Barker, Niki Cabe, Margaret Lee Johnson, and Shirley Stevens. These girls attended this camp last year and were most anxious to go again this year. This is Las Leonitas camp.

The camp is about 12 miles south of Lubbock, and was one of 12 camps in the U. S. fortunate enough to secure a foreign exchange counselor. A counselor from Finland will be one of the instructors.

UMBARGER 4-H CLUB MEETS

Umbarger 4-H Club girls are to have a monthly meeting in the afternoon of July 20th at the home of Mrs. John Vorwald. The mothers are invited. Miss Lou Ella Patterson will demonstrate banana nut bread.

Mrs. C. C. Stephens and children, Betty, Kay, Jack and Joe, returned the past week from Springtown where they had spent the past month with Mrs. Stephens' parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Simmons.

VOTE FOR Allan Shivers for Governor

VOTE —

FOR a man who is running on a record of distinguished performance instead of demagogic promise;

FOR a man who has vastly improved the highway and farm-to-market networks without suggestion of favoritism or graft;

FOR a man who has extended our facilities for taking care of our unfortunates without losing sight of the interests of the taxpayers;

FOR the man who had the courage to fight the northern city machines and political bosses that were trying to dictate to Texas;

FOR the man who had the character to defy theft thinly disguised as federal policy, saved our Tidelands, and in doing so potentially enriched the Permanent School Fund of Texas by hundreds of millions of dollars.

FOR the man who therefore risked his future with the National party for the sake of principle and the interests of his State he had taken an oath to represent;

FOR the man who had the courage and the character to defy and defeat the Communist inroads into Texas even when labelled as "Liberal Labor Leadership;"

FOR the only man in Texas public life who had the courage to break the control of racketeering in Duval County, to stop the intimidation of its citizens, the corruption of its courts, the misuse of its public funds and the theft of its elections;

FOR the man who admitted the need of higher paid teachers but who had the character and business sense to insist that the raise should not be granted until Texas had the money;

FOR the man who has, therefore, kept Texas on a cash basis without state income and sales tax laws;

FOR the most substantial and experienced man that has graced the Governor's office in generations!

VOTE for Allan Shivers whose record is one of dignity, honor, stability and performance —

Around the Town . .

(By Mrs. Clyde W. Warwick)

Canyon women have cause to be proud of their grocery stores. They are clean, modern, with the stocks well arranged in an attractive manner. The people who serve you are pleasant and courteous. And since free delivery is no more, the grocery store has become, in a way, the women's club room. It is here you will meet and chat for a few minutes with more people than any other place.

The fresh vegetables and fruit are displayed in an attractive manner and if what you want is not on the fresh counters you will be sure to find it in the frozen counters. Everything you want or can pay for is to be found in our grocery stores, and the prices are no higher than any other place.

I can remember "the good old days" when it was impossible for the food merchant to keep his place free from flies, but today, there is never a fly seen in a grocery store, and best of all the worms are gone from the corn, the tomatoes and the apples.

An interesting reversal of the ways of nature is happening over between the homes of the Jess Barkers and the Tom Brashers. This spring a mocking bird built it's nest in a tree between the two houses. The Barkers have a pet cat and it is supposed the cat tried to get to the nest because any time the cat comes in sight of the nest the bird takes after it, landing on the cat's back it begins to scold and peck the cat until the cat hunts cover. How long the bird will be the winner no one can tell but so far it has the cat beat. The cat has long been a favorite of the neighborhood children but, now, every child is on the side of the mocking bird.

Mrs. George Nance is almost well from her recent illness. Mrs. Nance had to make three trips to Temple where she underwent major surgery but says that now she is nearly well again.

Dr. Leta N. Boswell is taking her vacation. Spending it at home trying to catch up with her yard work.

Mrs. Robert Bellah and her four children, Michael, Bobby, Craig, and Debra Lynne, are visiting with Mrs. Bellah's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Staples, of Dallas, and her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Staples, who also live in Dallas.

Mrs. R. E. Ball received her M.A. degree at West Texas State College Friday morning. Mrs. Ball has been teaching school in the winter months and going to college in the summer time. She has always been active in church and social affairs of Canyon in spite of the very busy life she lives. Congratulations Irene.

Woodrow Wilson once said, "It is amazing to how great an extent some human minds can resist information. Even some young minds lock the door against truth, not only declining to accept facts, but even refusing to listen to an honest analysis of an unfamiliar problem or situation or plan, and, as a result, live in ignorance and poverty when they might enjoy and possess knowledge and riches."

Craig Bellah celebrated his seventh birthday Tuesday with a party in his back yard for 32 youngsters. They played games, Andrea Lair and Red Parker winning the prizes. Favors were given the guests of wrist watches for the girls and sheriff badges for the boys. Mrs. Bellah was assisted by Mrs. Betty Ross Howard. Refreshments were served of the birthday cake and ice cream. In the afternoon Craig appeared on the television show, "Kids Only," at 4 o'clock. As usual one of the most interesting things was the opening of presents.

Cheryl Ann McClure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boone McClure, has been visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Palmer of Shamrock. Mr. and Mrs. McClure drove to Shamrock to spend the week-end with Mrs. McClure's parents and bring Cheryl Ann home.

The Gallup poll shows that 62 per cent of all husbands in the U. S. today pitch into the daily routine of housework. Six out of ten help with housework; four of ten with cooking, and one third wash dishes.

The poll also revealed, interestingly enough, that the more education a man has had the more work he does at home, also the younger a man is the more he helps around the home. In the age group 21 to 29, 87 per cent help, and 78 per cent for the 30 to 44 age group. While men 45 and over only 70 per cent lend hands.

Saw Loula Grace Erdman, Canyon's most distinguished writer, she looked charming in a very chic little hat which she said was made especially for her by a Paris designer. Interesting was what the designer said about American women. He told Loula Grace that American women had every thing French women had, the difference being that American women would not take the time or trouble with their clothes and person that French women do.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Walters and daughter, Annelle, of Vancouver, Wash., are visiting Mrs. Walter's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rhome Mobley. The Walter's daughter, Mary, who lives in Washington, D. C., will meet them here for a visit.

Mrs. Oscar Peoples of San Angelo, is one of the counselors at the Youth Conference the Episcopalian Church is holding at Ceta Glen, and is spending what time she can visiting with her mother, Mrs. Barlow, and her sister, Dr. Ima Barlow.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Blackwell and children of Cuero arrived Saturday to visit in the home of Dr. Leta N. Boswell and Mrs. J. W. Norvell. Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell and baby left Monday, leaving Sally, Raleigh, Jr., and Willis to visit for two or three weeks with their grandmother and aunt.

"Blessed is the man who has found his work; let him ask no other blessedness. Know thy work, and do it; and work at it like Hercules. One monster there is in the world, the idle man." —Thomas Carlyle.

The following interesting story comes to us from Independence, Mo., O. W. Parker, Jr.'s home town. It is about O. W. Parker's mother's home. In 1921, Bud's father bought a home at Independence and the family has lived there ever since. The family lost an old friend the other day and they feel pretty bad about it. A light bulb that had burned on the front porch of the home for 33 years failed to respond to the click of the switch the other night.

The bulb is of the old type and was patented in 1904.

Bud Parker recalls that the light was left on for children of the family over the years when they were out at night. "And we always kept it on for our mother when she was out in the evening," he said. "Now she and the rest of us will have to get along with a replacement that won't be quite as friendly as the old dimmer bulb." Nor will the new bulb last as long.

A farmer and college professor were traveling together on a train. After a few days, they got tired of talking and reading so the professor suggested they play riddles.

"Every time you miss a riddle you give me a dollar, and every time I miss a riddle I'll give you a dollar," said the professor.

"You're better educated than I am," the farmer pointed out. "I'll give you 50 cents."

The professor agreed and the farmer made up the first riddle.

"What has three legs walking and two legs flying?" he asked.

The professor didn't know so he gave the farmer a dollar.

The farmer didn't know either so he gave the professor 50c.

U. S. Senator

Tax Revision Bill

The vote in the Senate on the 1954 tax revision bill was 63 for to 9 against. I voted for the bill. It is not a perfect measure, but it does afford some needed relief to individual taxpayers and I considered it an improvement over the House bill.

What The Bill Does

In all, this bill provides, for the 1955 fiscal year, tax relief to individuals totaling $652,000,000. Here are some of the most significant items:

The first $1200 of retirement income received by retired employees is not subject to income tax.

Working mothers, widows and widowers who pay for the care of their children under 12 years of age will get some tax relief. Up to $600 paid for this purpose in any year will be free of tax.

The bill provides more liberal deductions for medical expenses. Under present law, the taxpayer can deduct only those medical expenses amounting to more than 5 per cent of his income. Under the Senate bill, he can get a deduction for all medical expenses totaling more than 3 per cent of his income.

Exemptions for dependents under 19 years of age, or who are students, are permitted even though they earn over $600 a year — provided the taxpayer furnishes over half their support. The bill provides that foster parents and foster children may be claimed as tax dependents.

Farmers can spend up to one-fourth of their farm income for soil and water conservation purposes and not pay taxes on income spent in that way.

You have been filing your income tax return not later than March 15. Under the Senate bill, you will have until April 15.

Tax Bill Sidelights

Efforts were made in the Senate to reduce the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance, so important to Texas. Both Senator Daniel and I opposed these proposals and spoke against them. They were defeated.

The 52 per cent tax rate on corporations, scheduled to drop to 47 per cent this year, was continued for another year. This will result in the Government receiving $1,200,000,000 more from corporations than would have been received under the lower rate.

This is the first comprehensive revision of the tax laws since 1939.

Rio Grande Flood

As soon as news of the Rio Grande flood reached me, I wired city officials of Langtry, Eagle Pass, Del Rio, Ozona, Sheffield and Laredo, as well as county judges of Maverick, Val Verde and Webb Counties, offering the facilities of my office for any aid we could give.

After receiving word that a number of Mexicans were stranded in Villa Acuna, across the river from Del Rio, I obtained necessary clearance from the State Department and arranged with the Army to fly across the river with food and medical supplies provided by the Red Cross.

My office was in immediate and constant contact with the Civil Defense Administration, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Labor, State authorities in Texas — doing everything possible to help arrange for emergency food supplies, medical supplies, water purification equipment, and anything else needed.

We worked with the military on a project for establishing temporary pontoon bridges to replace bridges put out of commission at Laredo, Del Rio and Eagle Pass.

I introduced in the Senate a resolution expressing the sympathy of Congress for the people of Texas and of Mexico stricken by the flood and stating the desire of Congress to be that the United States should offer every aid possible for emergency relief and rehabilitation. The resolution swept through the Senate within 10 minutes after its introduction.

The office of your Senator is always at the service of the people of Texas. We try to act promptly at all times — and especially so in the case of emergencies involving the lives and welfare of individuals.

U. S. Foreign Policy

American foreign policy is today at the crossroads. In a recent speech in the Senate, I stressed these two points, which I believe are sound:

(1) We must have a reappraisal of our foreign policy. We must decide where we are going — how we are going to get there — and who is going with us.

(2) We must consider and solve our foreign policy problems as Americans — not as partisans. That is fundamental.

Work Speeding Up

A report at the beginning of July showed that Congress passed more bills in June than during all the first five months of the session put together. We are acting now on the basis of committee hearings and committee reports made earlier in the session.

The tempo is fast, and getting faster. As you read this, Congress has only a little more than two weeks to go if the July 31 adjournment goal is to be reached. We still have much work to do.

We have to act on important foreign legislation — on the atomic energy bill — on the various bills to strengthen control of subversives in this country — on the Social Security bill. The foreign aid authorization bill will be up for action, followed by an appropriation bill to carry out its provisions. We will have placed before us conference reports on housing, the tax bill, and other legislation.

We are working early and late. You can understand why I was able to get away from my desk before midnight only one time last week.

MRS. C. C. STEPHENS HOSTESS TO BLUE FLAME CLUB MEET

Mrs. C. C. Stephens entertained the members of the Blue Flame Club Thursday night with the regular monthly meeting.

Instead of having the "Grab Bag" as usual for the members, Mrs. Piner Stevens was honored with a surprise stork shower.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames C. E. Clark, Jack Spurlock, Shelby Hood, Deene Donnell, Wayne Sanford, Bob Brotherton, Betty Stephens, W. O. Nunley, the honoree and the hostess. Those sending gifts but unable to attend were Mrs. John Hunter and Mrs. Chester Reynolds.

Mrs. M. L. Tanner and son, Lee, of Winter Haven, Fla., and Mrs. Gerald Schantz and Linda and Lamar of Lubbock are visiting in the W. T. Davis home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Lowe of Gruver visited Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Combs Friday and Saturday.

Appeals Courts Duties Are Fully Explained

The institution of appellate courts, of which the U. S. Supreme Court is the highest, illustrates how America has tackled the problem of attaining justice. The idea of justice in the abstract is difficult to come by. It is perhaps even more difficult to translate into human conduct and apply in the settlement of individual cases.

How does a case come before an appellate court? If you and your neighbor have a dispute over the property line between your two lots, you would be foolish to go to court for a settlement if you did not believe that right was on your side. Therefore, practically every civil action that comes before a trial court originates in an honest difference of opinion as to what the law or the facts of that case are.

But right cannot be on both sides; so one or the other of the litigants must be mistaken. When you seek legal counsel on such a question, it frequently happens that your lawyer will advise you not to go to court. Only a relatively small percentage of cases reach trial. The law is clear enough so that among the millions of transactions taking place in the country only a relative few ever result in lawsuits.

But suppose you and your lawyer have decided that your case has enough merit to warrant going to court. The facts on both sides are presented, the lawyers on both sides argue the merits of their clients' cases and the court is then called upon to render a decision. In some cases this decision will be based on findings of a jury. The vast majority of the cases are settled then and there with the decision of the trial judge.

But judges, like all of us, are human, and the law is complicated and subject to varied interpretation. At times the trial judge may err in admitting or evaluating the facts, or in interpreting the law applicable to the facts. Under such circumstances your case may be appealed to an appellate court.

Some states have no intermediate courts between the trial court and the state Supreme Court. In such states a case from District Court is appealed directly to the Supreme Court, the highest court of appeal in the state.

In Texas, cases are appealed from a District Court to one of 11 Courts of Civil Appeals. Sometimes the judgment of the latter court is final, as in ordinary divorce cases not involving property. But if the case meets certain requirements it may be further appealed to the Supreme Court of Texas. Criminal cases are appealed directly from the District Court to the Court of Criminal Appeals, which is the highest state court in criminal matters.

Federal cases are appealed from a U. S. District Court to a Circuit Court of Appeals and from there to the Supreme Court of the United States, provided the latter will assume jurisdiction of the matter.

When you appeal your case, you ask that the error you believe you have found be corrected. If it was an error, that is what will happen —the trial judge's decision will be reversed.

Sometimes the courts are compelled to decide a question one way because the law says so, but the results bring to light serious defects on the existing law. When such an injustice is discovered, the legislature may remedy the defect by passing laws to correct it.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McDowell and daughter, and Sam Gray visited in Dalhart Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gray.

Mrs. Charles Stratton left Monday to visit with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Markham, in Levelland.

Ruthart - Burrus Wedding Ceremony Read in Formal Rites Friday Evening

MRS. TROY LEE BURRUS

Nelda Retha Ruthart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Ruthart, Route 4, Amarillo, became the bride of Troy Lee Burrus, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Burrus, Canyon, Friday evening, July 9, with a double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Rev. Howard Bramlette, director of the Baptist Student Center of West Texas State College, read the impressive service.

The altar rail was draped with white satin and centered with a candelabra arch and flanked with large baskets of white gladioli and seven branched candelabra. Large palm stands formed the background.

As a prelude Miss Laura Smith, organist, played "Indian Love Call," "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and "Oh! Sweet Mystery of Life." She accompanied Miss Bettie Graham, who sang "Through the Years" and "Because," preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction. "Clair de Lune" was the musical background for the ceremony and the traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Mrs. Robert O'Donald, sister of the bride, as matron-of-honor, was gowned in blue nylon tulle over taffeta, styled with a strapless bodice brocaded in white, a draped stole and floor length bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a spray of flowers accented with nylon tulle and matching velveteen ribbon. Her bouquet was a nosegay of blue daisies with white lace edging and accented with small white butterflies with blue and silver jewels.

Bridesmaids, Misses Leta Cherry from Borger, Juanelle Burrus, sister of the groom, were gowned in pink styled identically to that of the matron-of-honor. The flower girl, Diane Smith, of Olton and cousin of the bride, was gowned in blue identical to the other attendants.

Austell Burrus was his brother's best man. Dennis Walling and Bruce Winn were groomsmen and served as ushers with Garland Ruthart, brother of the bride, and Albert Craig.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was a vision of loveliness in a gown of white satin and imported Chantilly lace fashioned with high neckline, embroidered with seed pearls. The fitted bodice with long tight sleeves ending in points over the hands extended into a slender point at the center front waistline. From this streamed a voluminous satin skirt with lace panels flaring from the waistline to the hem at each side front joining the satin which swept into a long graceful train. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion fell from a tiara of lace and nylon tulle studded with seed pearls. Her bouquet was a crescent of pink and white stephanotis and gardenias accented with green satin leaves and white shower ribbon tied with loveknots and stephanotis.

Mrs. Ruthart, mother of the bride, wore a pink street length faille, rhinestone studded dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Burrus, mother of the groom, wore a navy sheer dress with navy and white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony the wedding party was feted with a reception in the church parlor. The bride's table was draped with a white linen cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli and baby's breath. Mrs. B. E. McCormick served the wedding cake and Mrs. Cecil Simms presided at the punch bowl. Other members of the house party were Mesdames Lynn Williams, Manuel Ruthart, Crawford Ruthart, and Ray Metcalf.

For the wedding trip to points of interest in New Mexico the bride traveled in a charcoal gray cotton suit dress accented with black and white trim. Her accessories were gray and black and she wore a gardenia corsage.

After July 12 they will be at home at 708 Tennessee, Amarillo.

The bride is a graduate of Canyon High School and will be a senior at West Texas State this fall.

One of the strangest collections of people you'll see anywhere are those that get together for a piano recital. The other night about 50 persons gathered for what we used to call a "joint recital," by two pretty high school girls, neither of whom has much more prospect of becoming a professional pianist than most of us have as space pilots.

Numbered among the guests were uncles, aunts, a few self-conscious boy friends, a slicked up little brother complete with bow tie, two foxy little girl cousins in pink and blue organdy, and some staunch family friends. One "favorite teacher" stood out like a corsage at a baseball game. The antique grandmother of one performer seemed to get the most honest pleasure from the concert. We were a strangely intimate group, yet strangers to each other.

Most of the audience was women and children, although an occasional husband, who couldn't think fast enough on his feet when the subject was mentioned, was present to support fathers and uncles.

It was a wholesome and gentle type of boredom. The young women performed with earnest exactness, slowing down as they hit the hard passages, then speeding up triumphantly for the next few measures. Sympathetic friends and relatives gave them moral support in whatever way their loyalty dictated. One bobbed her head vigorously to help with the tempo. Another gripped the chair arm when a note got mislaid. Deep frowns of concentration relaxed when a number was finished and the polite applause sounded.

There may be those who argue such demonstrations are pointless or silly, but we wouldn't agree. For the young women it meant hours spent on something besides dates and movies and radio. Appearing before an audience took courage and poise. And getting through their performance creditably gave them a sense of achievement that will help later on.

For the adults in the audience, it was a nostalgic reminder of life's growing pains.

Killian - Jones Vows Are Solemnized

MRS. W. MITCHELL JONES, JR.

Marriage vows for Miss Reba Rhea Killian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Killian, Pampa, and W. Mitchell Jones, Jr., son of Dean and Mrs. Mitchell Jones of Canyon, were solemnized on Tuesday, 7:30 p. m., June 29, in the Central Baptist Church of Pampa. The Reverend Howard Bramlette, Baptist student secretary and teacher of Bible at West Texas State, performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with fan-shaped arrangements of white gladioli backed by jade palms, fernery, and white candelabra. White satin bows and gladioli marked the bridal aisle.

As a nuptial prelude, Mrs. Jack Cooper of Galveston, at the organ, played Wagner's "To The Evening Star," Tchaikowsky's "Andante Cantabile," De Koven's "O Promise Me," Liszt's "Liebestraum," and the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria." Mrs. James Silcott, sister of the bride, sang "Through the Years" and "Because," accompanied by Mrs. J. R. Manning at the piano.

For the prayer, Miss Narcia Finney sang "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. Jack Cooper at the organ. Mrs. Cooper played the traditional wedding marches. Debussy's "Clair de Lune" was used as background music during the ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Narcia Finney of Plainview. She wore a pale green taffeta dress with portrait neckline and bouffant waltz length skirt. Her hand bouquet was of white carnations and lemon leaves fashioned similar to the bride's.

Marshall Jones of Canyon was his brother's best man. Ushers were Jack Cooper of Galveston, J. C. Henderson of Dimmitt, and Jerome Edwards of Canyon, cousin of the groom.

Candlelighters were Nancy Sue Watson of Floydada, cousin of the groom, and James Killian of Pampa, brother of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of silk chantilly lace over antique silk taffeta styled with fitted bodice and portrait neckline, short sleeves, bouffant waltz length skirt with lace scallops bordering neckline and skirt. Her head piece was lace over taffeta bordered with seed pearls and scalloped finger tip length veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white orchids bordered with white carnations and lemon leaves and showered with white satin streamers. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Killian chose a beige lace dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was white carnations accented with brown satin ribbon. The bridegroom's mother wore a mauve lace dress and mauve accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations accented with white satin ribbon.

Immediately following the ceremony, the reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with an organdy cloth and centered with an arrangement of white Ester Reed daisies flanked by white tapers. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Golden punch decorated with green cherries and mint leaves frozen into ice was served with the cake.

Presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. Paul L. Wills of El Paso, sister of the bride, and Miss Peggy Moore of Canyon. Serving the cake were Mrs. O. D. Burba, sister of the bride, and Mrs. J. H. Reeves.

Also assisting with the serving were Mrs. J. W. Crisler and Mrs. Kate Thomas, both of Pampa, and Miss Barbara Dunn of Littlefield. Mrs. Johnny Reynolds of Amarillo secured names for the guest register.

For the wedding trip to Red River, New Mexico, the bride traveled in a gray suit trimmed in white with white accessories. Her corsage was white orchids.

The couple will be at home at Bronte for the summer.

The bride received her B.S. degree from West Texas State in 1953 and was a member of Alpha Chi honor society, Who's Who, Student Senate, and was chosen the most outstanding senior woman. Last year, she did graduate work in chemistry at Washington State.

The groom received his B.S. degree from West Texas State in 1951, where he was a member of Alpha Chi honor society and Who's Who. He will be a senior at the University of Texas Medical School this fall where he is a member of the Phi Beta Pi Medical Fraternity.

Help Keep Canyon Clean!

Just Between You, Me . . . . . and the Gatepost

By Lawrence Hunnicutt

Sure missed a good chance to rain last week, didn't it? The clouds may have helped the morale of the people a little though because at least they got to see some pretty good clouds. Clouds that spilled a little water in other places may be considered more than pretty good during this time of year. The scattered thunder showers hit a few places in the Panhandle but only made the people of the Canyon vicinity hopeful for a little of the moisture in the next cloud that comes along. Sort of like catching busses, maybe we'll get the next one.

Probably one of the best topics for conversation is one's relatives. Someone has said, "relatives are like the moon, they really look wonderful from a great distance." The fact is that a lot of people enjoy their relatives and say nice things about them. Some people frown and say as little as they can about relatives. Then there are others who just say 'uncle.'

Another polio tragedy struck in our midst last week when little Dana Lattimer became the victim of this mysterious malady. Dana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lattimer. Mrs. Lattimer has been at Plainview with Dana for nearly two weeks. By the end of the week Dana's fever was breaking and we surely hope that by now she is much improved.

It would sure take a burden of fear from patients if a vaccine against polio were produced. It was hoped that one would be out by this summer some time but as yet it hasn't appeared. Although it's a painful thought, you can't rush medical research. So perhaps by next summer there will be a vaccine that will protect other children from the dread and painful effects of polio.

A large number of people enjoyed "The Robe" last week at the Varsity Theater. According to reports the cost of filming the picture was terrific. The picture should inspire a lot of people to attend church more often. If it does the money that went into the production of it was very well spent. One of the main reasons the colonists came to America was for religious freedom. A more widespread practice of this theme could help the country today also.

Gene McGlasson was all smiles as he went about his business last week. His happiness may be due to one of two things, maybe both, the fact that he hasn't an opponent in the forthcoming election or is planning a wonderful vacation.

Instead of taking a lazy Fourth of July at home A. B. Holt went to a farm and drove a tractor all day. He really had the look of a farmer too as he tilled the soil that was rapidly trying to take to the air and 'go with the wind.'

Honesty is the best policy, at least when you know you can't get away with not being honest.

The term 'tax bracket' should be changed to 'tax handcuffs,' either way you're all tied up.

You can't live in the future neither can you relive the past. The best time of your life is the present, so make the most of it.

Don't take everything literally. Just because someone tells you to go fly a kite is no reason for you to do it.

The best way to get your mind off your troubles is to look around a bit and you'll find someone who has more and worse troubles than you.

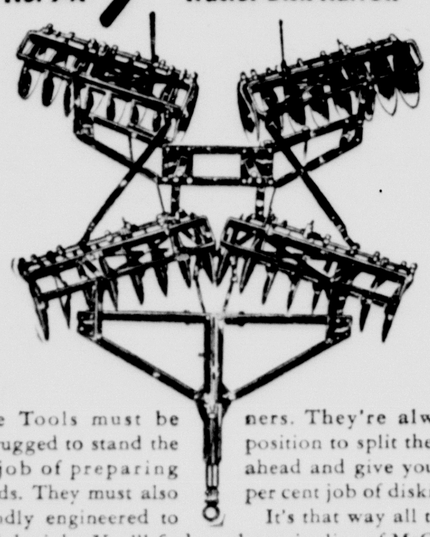
Tillage Tools

No. 9-A Tractor Disk Harrow



Tillage Tools must be plenty rugged to stand the tough job of preparing seed beds. They must also be soundly engineered to do the job right. You'll find both characteristics in McCormick Tillage Tools.

Take, for example, the rear gangs on the No. 9-A tractor disk harrow. Notice how they are "cross-draft" connected. That shows real engineering "know-how." The rear gangs can't skid in tough soils or when turning corners. They're always in position to split the ridges ahead and give you a 100 per cent job of disking.

It's that way all through the entire line of McCormick Tillage Tools. You'll find weight where weight is needed—quality construction and sound engineering. You can depend upon every tool to do its job right.

Come in and see the long-lasting, good-working McCormick Tillage Tools we have on hand.

Five Years of Peace Hinted as China Embarks Industrial Program

WASHINGTON: Revelation of Chinese industrial plans by a member of that country's State Planning Committee, as made in an article in Pravda, raises hopes that China will not embark on a major war effort until at least 1959.

China has set as an industrial target the level of production scratched in Russia in 1932. That was as follows: Steel—5,900,000 metric tons; coal—64,600,000; oil—22,300,000. It is frankly hinted—in the article—that China will not have significant industrial output until these goals are reached.

Hsueh Mu-Chiao, author of the Pravda article, reports that Russia will supply much of the machinery and financial aid, needed to attain goals of the five-year plan. Already, he notes, Russia has promised to build or reconstruct some 140 heavy industries in China.

A great industrial drive in Communist China, if it follows the Russian pattern, will rule out war in the next five, or even ten, years. At the end of that time, however, China will be a far more formidable military opponent than she is today.

The British hope that in the interval some understanding can be arrived at, and that peace may yet be attained. Right or wrong, it seems that the apparent intention of Red China to follow in Russia's footsteps—along the path to industrial might—might allow the world to escape another major global conflict for at least five years.

The Communists when they took over Russia in 1917, avoided war at all costs, even after World War II opened in Europe, and only Hitler's attack brought them into the furnace of that sacrifice. The plan was for Russia to sit it out and emerge the strongest country in Europe, unhurt and fresh.

If that philosophy is to be followed by China, the world may enjoy an armed peace for a number of years to come.

Republicans are cheered somewhat by the latest business signs. While many forecasters had warned that business would not show any perking up until after the summer months, these words of pessimism seem to be belied by recent developments.

In June more business measurements showed upward trends than had been expected. Unemployment claims were at their lowest point since last October. Factory output was at its high point since last November. The government was also getting ready to spend more money and credit being kept available at low interest rates.

Building was booming, and running far ahead of 1954. In most areas, during the next-to-last week in June, department store sales were up — and ran higher than for the corresponding period in 1953. Department store inventories also reversed the downward trend and moved up in May of this year.

The stock market reached a peak on June 24 which was the highest average price level since 1929. Thus business indicators definitely showed that the recession was encountering rough going. It seemed on the way out after nine months of readjustment.

The outlook, moreover, seems bright. A great majority of the nation's economy experts see better years immediately ahead, stable conditions and generally good business conditions—barring a war—for several years.

Farmers may face a continuing squeeze, and the political effects of this situation are likely to be reflected in agricultural sections. The farm program is still the critical front on Eisenhower's battle line, and no completely satisfactory answer appears to be on the horizon.

Washington Sets Goal For Schools Under Desegregation Plan of Court

By HARRY S. DENT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON: Plans for desegregating the public schools of the nation's capital city are rapidly shifting into high gear even though the Supreme Court's final decrees as to when and how desegregation is to be accomplished are still months away.

President Eisenhower has informed School Supt. Hobart Corning he wants the District of Columbia School integration program to serve as a "pilot model" for the rest of the nation to follow. During recent weeks, Dr. Corning and members of the District Board of Education have approved integration plans that are in compliance with the President's wishes, if not somewhat ahead of the fondest expectations.

According to the approved plans, thousands of colored pupils will be enrolled in most of Washington's 81 white public schools when schools reopen in September of this year, and some white pupils will be enrolled in some of Washington's 78 colored schools. Complete integration, based on strict school boundaries, is to be fully accomplished by September, 1955. Washington generally considered a Southern city, has evidently taken rapid integration plans calmly. Only one group, the Federation of Citizens' Associations, has protested the speed-up integration plans. Its executive council has threatened to throw the District Board members into court if they continue with their "precipitous" and "disastrous" plans before the Supreme Court hands down its final desegregation decrees.

A number of other civic groups have endorsed the plans. The Parent-Teacher Association in town has already invited Negroes to join its ranks.

This is what the District Board has decided to do in breaking down segregation restrictions in September, 1954:

1. Drop all race restrictions on pupils entering District schools for the first time and admit them to the nearest schools—white or colored.
2. Desegregate and probably merge the night schools.
3. Admit a limited number of colored pupils living in predominately white neighborhoods to near by white schools, in order to save them from traveling long distances.
4. Transfer approximately 2,700 children from crowded colored schools to white schools.

When the school bells ring in the capital city for reopening on September 13, segregation will, for the most part, be a thing of the past in the President's "pilot model" for the rest of the nation.

STRICT CROP CONTROLS

Perhaps the strictest crop control rules ever have been announced by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson. Under the new system, a farmer will not be eligible for price support aid on any crop unless he abides by controls on all crops. The new program is designed to reduce total plantings about 40,000,000 acres, or one-eighth, below 1953.
